PRESIDENT'S CORNER

THINKING ABOUT THE RUSSIANS

The commencement audience at Harvard was jarred last spring by a prophetic diagnosis of Western culture offered by Alexander Solzhenitsyn. Reactions have since been mixed, ranging from outrage to applause. Many were puzzled by this address which echoed unfamiliar voices from the middle ages and which presented an eastern perspective difficult for occidental minds to grasp. The audience at ancient Bethel could not have been more stunned and perplexed when Amos, a Hebrew prophet of the 8th century B.C., pronounced doom on ancient Israel.

Solzhenitsyn's message to contemporary America is significant. He is calling us back to the bedrock of morality, something he called moral courage. His voice, like the voice of Kierkegaard from 19th century Denmark which signaled the end of Romanticism, will not likely be heeded. American devotion to the ideals of the Enlightenment is too strong, our hedonistic individualism too entrenched, and our economic pragmatism too axiomatic. Our response will more likely be to continue down the primrose path to Neo-romanticism, skipping along to the cadence set by the American Press?

Solzhenitsyn was especially critical of the American press, an institution he believes is obsessed and victimized by cultural fashion. Could it really be that the greatest problem facing the press today is not abridgment of its rights under the first amendment as Mr. Farber and the New York Times would have us believe? Might Solzhenitsyn be right that an insatiable appetite for triviality and a lack of moral courage and historical perspective are the real threats?

In the instant playback commentary which followed the televised address, a young and defensive reporter from Boston asked whether Solzhenitsyn could possibly understand America as he is in his Vermont retreat. I thought immediately of Immanuel Kant. John Locke and David Hume introduced a new era at the turn of the 18th century and no one understood this better than Immanuel Kant, the hot met philosopher from Wolfsburg who never wandered more than 50 kilometers from his home. Solzhenitsyn, like Kant, thinks; unlike the Boston reporter, he does not merely wander.

But just suppose Solzhenitsyn were to follow the young reporter's suggestion to tour America like Steinbeck in a camper, I suppose? What might one reasonably expect from such a sociological survey? At best a description of cultural residues? Never a clear perception of the dynamics of our living history. It is as Solzhenitsyn observed—the greatest problem facing the press—and higher education as well—is an insatiable appetite for triviality. Let us hope that Solzhenitsyn's uncomfortable challenge will awaken higher education from its dogmatic slumbers and help us regain our moral

TRUSTEE ACTIONS

One new member was appointed and a present member was elected vice chairman of the Lycoming College Board of Trustees at the fall meeting of the board October 13 at the college. Both were named to fill the responsibilities of the unexpired term of the late Walter J. Heim, longtime member and vice chairman of the board when he died in August.

Nathan W. Stuart, Williamsport attorney and a member of the board since 1961, was elected to fill the vacant post of vice chairman to serve until the regular reorganization of the board at the annual meeting in April.

Appointed to fill the unexpired term on the board until 1981 was John Y. Schreyer, a native of Milton and now a partner in the firm of Arthur Young and Company of New York with responsibility for the firm's principal international accounts. He is a resident of Little Falls, New Jersey, and is a member of The United Methodist Church. Schreyer is a graduate of Milton High School, and received his bachelor of arts degree from Colgate University and his master of business administration from The Wharton School of Finance and Commerce of The University of Pennsylvania.

The new trustee is also a member of the Little Falls School Board and also directed the Arthur Young community education project in the Bedford Stuyvesant area of Brooklyn, a project in which selected unemployed residents were trained as accounting assistants.

In other action, the board adopted a 1978-79 budget of $4,425,000, a total of $175,000 more than last year. Kenneth E. Holmes, treasurer of the college, reported the 1977-78 fiscal year was concluded with a small surplus of $4,777.

Religious Faith Played Crucial Role At Camp David, Says U.S. Rep.

The only United Methodist minister now serving in the U. S. Congress believes the religious convictions of three national leaders involved in the Camp David meeting played a crucial role in the successful effort to build a framework for peace.

U. S. Representative Robert Edgar (D.-Pa.) told NEWSSCOPE that religious convictions were part of the chemistry between the three men. He notes that they began the summit with a prayer, they used religious language in the framework for peace and President Carter used a beatitude to characterize their peacemaking achievements. Edgar had visited with Egyptian President Anwar Sadat last year, and at that time Sadat told him that President Carter and the United States held the keys to peace in the Mideast.

Edgar also told NEWSSCOPE he was disappointed in absence of activity in the religious community in relation to Cambodia. "Right now I think the religious community can analyze the

Pew Memorial Trust Makes $200,000 Grant to Lycoming

A grant of $200,000 from the Pew Memorial Trust of Philadelphia to help finance construction of a new physical education and recreation center at Lycoming College was announced at the fall meeting of the board of trustees by Dr. Frederick E. Blumer, president of the college.

George P. Flint, director of institutional relations, said the public phase of the campaign to raise funds to finance construction is expected to begin in March, 1979.

Plans for the two-story building, which is expected to cost more than $3,000,000 to construct and equip, are being prepared by the architectural firm of Hayes, Large, Suckling and Fruth, of Altoona. The 64,034 square feet of flexible space in the new building will include regulation-size courts for basketball, indoor tennis, volleyball, and badminton. Also to be included are facilities for wrestling, gymnastics, modern dance and intramural sports.

In addition, there will be a regulation-size, six-lane swimming pool with a 200-seat gallery for spectators. The main gymnasium area is expected to accommodate approximately 2,000 for tournaments, meets, athletic programs, cultural events and community activities.

College officials said groundbreaking for the new building will be held next spring. Construction is expected to take approximately 18 months.

The grant from the Pew Memorial Trust was the second large advance gift received for the Capital Gifts Campaign. School officials recently announced a contribution of $60,000 from the late Walter J. Heim, longtime member of the college board of trustees before his death in August.

The Pew Memorial Trust is the oldest and largest of the trusts established by the Pew family. It was founded in 1948 in memory of Joseph N. Pew, founder of Sun Oil Company, and his wife, Mary Anderson Pew, by their four surviving children. The trust is dedicated to religious, charitable, scientific, literary, and educational purposes, all concerned with the promotion of the public welfare. Grants are made to organizations with proven records of performance. The $200,000 grant, according to available records, is the largest gift Lycoming ever received from a private foundation.

situation there better than the government," he said. "If there really are the kind of horrors that have been alleged," he said, "I would think the churches would be calling for some sort of action." (Editor's Note: The above article was reprinted from The United Methodist NEWSSCOPE, the national weekly newsletter for United Methodist leaders. Rep. Edgar graduated from Lycoming College in 1965.)

Enrollment Statistics 1978-79

Enrollment statistics released recently by Robert J. Glunk, registrar and assistant to the dean of the college, reveal 1,179 students registered for the fall semester of the 1978-79 academic year which opened August 28.

Total enrollment, which includes part-time students, decreased by 119 from the previous year with most of the decline reflected in the senior class. There are 180 seniors presently enrolled while 247 graduated last May with the Class of 1978. However, to partly offset the deficit, the present freshman enrollment of 368 is 38 more than in 1977.

College officials said that despite the loss in total enrollment, they remain confident that a dual goal will be realized to both upgrade the quality of students and to stabilize the student body at 1,200 to 1,250. The goal was established several years ago when it became obvious that the rapid growth in college enrollment of the previous decade would decline and eventually level off.

Robert A. Doyle, director of admissions at Lycoming, said the incoming freshmen ranked in the top half of their class and scored better than the average college freshman on the College Board SAT test. The national average was 429 on the verbal section and 468 on the math, and Lycoming freshmen achieved an average of 440 on verbal and 482 on math.

DOUGLAS J. KEIPER, associate dean of student services at Lycoming College since 1976 and a graduate of the college in 1968, has been named assistant director of admissions at his alma mater, effective October 1, it was announced by Dr. James R. Jose, dean of the college.

Keiper will also relinquish his responsibilities as assistant wrestling coach at Lycoming when he begins his new assignment. He has been assistant to varsity wrestling coach Budd Whitehill since 1975.

The new assistant admissions director holds a master of education degree from the Pennsylvania State University. He was a member of the Lycoming wrestling team for four years as an undergraduate, and was a teacher and wrestling coach for two years at the Newark Valley (N.Y.) High School prior to joining the administrative staff at Lycoming in 1970.

ALUMNI SPEAKERS

Two recent graduates of Lycoming College returned to their alma mater this fall to participate in seminars featuring discussion of bio-medical research in which the alumni are now involved.

Both were biology majors at Lycoming, and both are studying various aspects of the anatomy and physiology of the endothelial lining of blood capillaries as part of their doctoral programs.

Anthony Milici, a member of the Class of 1975, discussed his work with the electron microscope on the development of intestinal capillaries. Milici recently presented the paper at the Ninth International Congress of Electron Microscopy in Toronto, Canada. He is presently associated with the Department of Anatomy, Hahnemann Medical College.

The second seminar featured Lawrence Argbright, '74, who discussed "Characterization of the Vascular Response and Cutaneous Inflammation Stimulus in Response to Ultraviolet Light." Argbright is a student at the Temple University School of Medicine and a supervising research assistant in the dermatology department at the Skin and Cancer Hospital.

THINKING ABOUT THE RUSSIANS

our do... Perhaps then we will be able to avoid the indictment of another Russian, Tolstoy, who criticized the academic historians of his day by describing them as dead men reply to questions that nobody puts to them.

This is just a note to let you know we're thinking about the Russians these days. We'd like to know what you're thinking too.

Meet Lycoming's Trustees . . .

Dr. Fred A. Pennington

DR. FRED A. PENNINGTON became a trustee of Lycoming College in 1958 and succeeded Robert F. Rich as chairman in 1965. He became Chairman Emeritus in 1976 but continues to serve as an active member of the board.

Dr. Pennington was born in Millville, Pennsylvania, attended Williamsport Dickinson Seminary (Class of 1932) and received the Bachelor of Arts in Chemical Engineering from Lehigh University in 1937. He joined the firm of Andrew S. McCreath & Son, Inc., analytical and consulting chemists, in Harrisburg in 1938, became its president in 1957 and chairman of its board in 1977. Beginning in 1944, he was instrumental in developing the plan to expand the firm from primarily a domestic one into a world wide organization specializing in the sampling and analysis of ores, metals and minerals bought and sold in international trade.

A resident of the Harrisburg area for many years, Dr. Pennington has served on numerous boards and associations, including the Harrisburg-Polyclinic Hospital and the Commonwealth National Bank. He is a member of several professional associations such as the American Chemical Society and the American Institute of Mining, Metallurgical, and Petroleum Engineers. He has also been active in service clubs, Masonic organizations, and the United Methodist Church, being a member of Grace United Methodist Church in Harrisburg.

Dr. Pennington's long service and generosity to Lycoming College were recognized in 1968 when he received the Award of Merit, in 1977 when he was selected to receive the Outstanding Alumnus Award, and finally in 1978 when Lycoming College conferred upon him the honorary degree, Doctor of Laws.

Dr. Pennington and his wife, the former Elizabeth Watkins, have two children, Fred A. Pennington, Jr., and Cynthia Pennington Clippinger '66, and two grandchildren.

Fred and Betty now divide their time between Mechanicsburg, Pennsylvania, and Naples, Florida.

W. RUSSELL ZACHARIAS became a trustee in 1958 following several years of active leadership in the Alumni Association.

Born in Union Mills, Maryland, Mr. Zacharias graduated from Williamsport Dickinson Seminary in 1924. He took extension courses at Penn State and Villanova in Business Administration and Sales Management and has spent most of his working life in these fields. He served as division sales manager and regional manager for Raymond Rosen & Co., Inc., an electrical appliance firm in Philadelphia. He was president of his own company and of Luckenbach, Inc., both of which also handled electric appliances. Russell is currently an Account Executive with Warreco W. York & Co., Inc., Investment Brokers.

MR. ZACHARIAS has contributed his services and served as officers of many community agencies, including the United Fund, Red Cross, the Allentown Library, and U. S. Savings Bond drives!

He has been a very active member of the Ashbury United Methodist Church in Allentown, having served many years on the Board of Trustees, Official Board, and as Superintendent of the Sunday School. He has also been active in Masonic and Shrine organizations.

Russell was one of the early presidents of Lycoming's alumni association, and he actively promoted the acceptance of alumni representatives on the Board of Trustees. He is in his seventh term as a trustee and is a member of the Executive Committee and Chairman of the Development Committee.

He is married to the former Geraldine Hackenberg, '24, and they reside in Allentown, Pennsylvania.

W. Russell Zacharias

Building Plans Taking Shape

Architectural drawings and plans for the new physical education and recreation center are approximately one-third complete at this writing. The approval by the Williamsport Zoning Board of a setback variance request cleared the way to locate the new structure precisely, and enabled the architects to proceed with foundation details. Complete plans and specifications should be completed and ready to put out for bids in late December or early January.

Lycoming College Fund Progress Report

To date we have received approximately $75,000 toward our goal of $125,000. Checks are arriving daily, but we have only about two months to go. Have you sent your check yet?

CAMPUS NOTES

DR. ROBERT H. MCIVER, lyric baritone, appeared in concert in the second annual Walter G. McIver Recital Series on Tuesday, September 26, in Clarke Chapel, Lycoming College.

DR. MCIVER, assistant professor of voice and director of the opera workshop at Westminster Choir College, is the son of WALTER G. MCIVER, professor emeritus of music at Lycoming, in whose honor the annual recital series is presented.

WILLIAM D. FORD, English department, has been notified that his name will be listed among the poets of Pennsylvania in the new edition of The Directory of American Poets (New York). To be so-listed requires that at least ten poems be published in respected journals, as certified by the publisher's screening committee. The book is sponsored in part by the National Endowment for the Humanities.

FRED M. THAYER, music department, has received notice from E. C. Schirmer Publishing Company of Boston that his composition Illumination for concert band is being published this fall.

DIANE LESKO, department of art, has been asked to serve as a reviewer of grant applications for the National Endowment for the Humanities--Museums and Historical Organizations Program. Such reviews, made prior to Endowment action, are solicited from individual scholars from museums, historical organizations and other educational institutions whose expertise is in the subject matter of the proposal.

MICHAEL ROSKIN, department of political science, has reached agreement with Prentice-Hall to produce a new main textbook for a first course in Comparative Politics. The 500-page hardbound will cover Britain, France, West Germany, the Soviet Union, China, Brazil, and possibly South Africa. Prentice-Hall published Roskin's first book, in 1977, covering Sweden, Spain, Italy, Yugoslavia, and East Germany.

MOON JO, department of sociology/anthropology, will chair a session on "Sociology of Development: Comparative Studies" at the Pennsylvania Sociological Association Annual Meeting being held this year at Cedar Crest College in Allentown, November 3-4. Dr. Jo will also present a paper, "Shintoism and Japanese Industrialization" at the session of "Sociology of Religion."

J. S. McCRARY, department of sociology/anthropology, will also present a paper "Social Change in the Arab World: The Case of Iraq" at the session chaired by Professor Jo at the Pennsylvania Sociological Association Annual Meeting, November 3-4.

JOHN PIPER, department of history, will co-chair the United Nations Seminar sponsored by the Board of Church and Society of the Central Pennsylvania Conference of The United Methodist Church. The Seminar will be held at the United Methodist Office for United Nations, in New York City, October 16-17. The topic of the Seminar is China.

STANLEY WILK, sociology/anthropology department, has been invited to chair the Annual Meeting of the Society for Humanistic Anthropology, held in conjunction with the annual meeting of the American Anthropological Association, in which he will also participate.

MAC Crown Within Reach

BRUCE L. SWANGER

The Lycoming football team, six games through what could be one of the finest years ever, has been recording a number of team "firsts" as they point toward what could be yet another first, the football championship of the Middle Atlantic Conference. The elusive crown has evaded the Warriors since they first entered the conference more than two decades ago.

Coach Frank Girardi's Warriors were off to their fastest start in history with five consecutive victories, including four conference wins, before being upset by Juniata, 24-7, to reduce the possibilities of winning the coveted conference crown. Although the loss did not eliminate Lycoming from the championship race, it did put the Indians in the driver's seat with a 3-0 conference record with three MAC games remaining. The Warriors were 4-1 following the loss to the Indians with one conference game left against Upsala at home. The five wins to open the season is one of the firsts recorded by the team. Never before has any Lyco squad won more than three in a row at the beginning of the year. And never before had a Warrior football team been in the Top 10 in the national rankings for Division III. After the first five games, Lycoming had achieved that distinction with enough votes from the experts to rank Number 10. And never before had the Warriors been as high as fourth place, the position they held after five games in the race for the Lambert Bowl, symbol of football supremacy among Division III schools in the East. However, the loss to Juniata was expected to drop Lycoming in the standings in both polls.

Although a good year was not entirely unexpected by coaches, the Warriors' excellent record at the midway point has come as a pleasant surprise. The veteran offensive unit, led by the running of senior tailback Kevin McVey and the quarterbacking of Rick Burd, has been far more consistent than last year. Burd, a sophomore transfer from Lock Haven State College, has been a major factor in the improvement. The young quarterback has the poise of a veteran in operating the offense. McVey, whose 114 yards per game ranks him seventh in the nation, has been running better than he did in his record-breaking sophomore year. He has added two school records this year to the four he claimed in 1976, and is almost a lead-pipe cinch to shatter two additional marks before hanging up his No. 25 jersey for the final time at the close of the season.

McVey went into the season with one single game mark, most times carried (39), and three season records, most yards rushing (833), most times rushing (219) and most touchdowns (7, tied with two others). In addition, he is presently improving each game on two career marks shattered earlier in the season, most times rushing and most yards rushing. The previous marks of 404 and 1,545 were set by Seth Keller in 1961-64. McVey's next touchdown will break a record of 14 career touchdowns set by Burt Richardson in 1957-60 and tied by McVey in the Susquehanna game, and he needs only five more points to surpass the career record of 86 scored by Richardson.

The most pleasant surprise of the season thus far has been the defense, which was hit hard by graduation. Despite the loss of the entire secondary and two all-conference linemen, the defense has been consistently strong with points. The reserves allowed two touchdowns on a long run and fumble loss deep in Lyco territory in the final five minutes of the 24-14 win over Lock Haven in the opening game. But since that time, the defense has blanked Albright, 10-0, and Susquehanna, 21-0, and allowed single touchdowns to Delaware Valley in a 21-7 win and Wilkes in a 41-8 shellacking of the Colonels. Despite the 24 points scored by Juniata in the unexpected upset by the Indians, the defense continued to play well. Turnovers set up three of the scores and several dropped passes by Warrior receivers in key situations prevented possible Lycoming scores. The defensive line led by All-MAC Jerry Butler has blocked several punts, converting one into a touchdown, and has played consistently in the opponent's backfield. They had 13 sacks of the Susquehanna quarterbacks. And the sophomore-dominated secondary of Paul DeJoseph, Bob DeLuca, Francis Harvey and Jim Crogale, the only junior, has already intercepted 11 enemy passes, including a school record equaling three by Harvey in the Susquehanna game. One of the interceptions was returned by Harvey 85 yards for a touchdown.

An added dimension to the Warrior offense has been the excellent kicking game led by Robbi Bleistein and Paul Scott, both juniors. Bleistein, the placekicker, has converted 16 of 16 extra-point attempts and has hit four field goals. Scott is averaging close to 40 yards per punt.

What lies ahead for the Warriors in their drive for the championship and an attempt to match the record 8-1 season compiled by the 1976 team? Western Maryland, Upsala and Dickinson are all formidable foes capable of turning mistakes into a win over the Warriors. A loss to any of the three would obviously prevent the 8-1 season and a defeat by Upsala would probably eliminate the Warriors from the championship race.

Lycoming players move the ball into position to attack the Scranton goal.

FIELD HOCKEY STREAK REVERSED

The Lyco field hockey team coached by Louise Courtney opened the season with four consecutive wins over Mansfield, Marywood, Scranton and Drew before hitting a slump in which they held Susquehanna to a 0-0 tie before losing three straight to Juniata, twice, and Wilkes.

The winning momentum shifted suddenly in the Susquehanna game in which the two teams fought to a scoreless stalemate at the end of regulation and the same score to a 10-minute overtime. The stickers of coach Louise Courtney were off to a fast start when they defeated Mansfield, 3-2; Marywood, 5-1; Scranton, 3-2, and Drew, 6-2, before losing their winning edge against Susquehanna. They lost, 5-0, to Juniata in the homecoming contest, dropped a 5-2 contest to Wilkes, before making it three straight defeats in a 1-0 squeaker with Juniata at Huntingdon.

The team was scheduled to end the regular season on October 21 at Delaware Valley,

However, they will play a club team from State College in an exhibition as part of the Parents' Weekend festivities on October 28. Karen Clarke, a sophomore from Delhi, N.Y., is leading the Lycoming offense with eight goals.

RAIN FRUSTRATES NETTERS

The fall tennis team coached by Deborah Holmes, frustrated by rain which caused cancellation or postponement of at least three matches and wiped out a probable victory in another, lost the first two matches before edging Wilkes, 4-3, to take a 1-2 record into the final week of the season. Several of the rained-out contests will not be played because of conflict in scheduling.

Lycoming held a solid lead most of the individual matches in the opening game with Mansfield before rain wiped the slate clean. The netters lost to Kings, 5-2, and to Scranton, 7-0, before capturing their initial win over Wilkes. Weather also forced rescheduling of games with Lock Haven State College and Bloomsburg State College, and approaching darkness forced cancellation of a match with Marywood College. The netters were scheduled to conclude the season on October 18 at Mansfield State College.

WINS ELUSIVE FOR SOCCERMEN

Wins have been elusive for the Lycoming soccer team. The Warrior booters lost a tough 3-2 overtime decision to Dickinson College on Sheridan Field to open the season, then struggled through a double overtime 2-2 deadlock with Juniata before beginning a winless streak which has extended through eight matches going into the final weeks of the season.

Despite the string of losses, the Warriors have been playing some fine soccer. However, they seem unable to mount a consistent scoring offense against some of the teams they normally should be expected to defeat. The booters of coach Nels Phillips began the streak following the Juniata tie by losing to always powerful Lock Haven, 8-2. They outplayed Wilkes in the next game at Sheridan Field but were unable to put the ball into the net in a 2-0 blanking by the Colonels. Then followed losses to three of the toughest teams on the Warrior schedule, Scranton, 4-0; Messiah, 5-1, and Bloomsburg, 5-0. Although returning to more competitive opposition following the three tough games, the Warriors were unable to halt their losing streak in matches against Susquehanna, 4-3; Albright, 3-1, and Upsala, 4-3.

Bart Landzert, a sophomore from Franklin Lakes, N.J., has been in the forefront in scoring for the Warriors.

The Lyco booters have three more intercollegiate games to halt their losing streak before closing out the season against a Williamsport area club team in an exhibition game to be played as part of Parents' Weekend activities on October 28.

The 18 queen candidates and their escorts shivered on the crisp fall Homecoming Day. Showers threatened but never dampened the spirits of the host of alums and friends of the College who returned to the campus to reminisce about "those great days of the recent (or distant) past." Of course, a highlight of the day came Saturday night when Lycoming's mighty War Hawks beat the Delaware Valley Aggies handily, rebounding from defeat! During the morning, our Field Hockey team had set the pace for the day by defeating Juniata while alumni were arriving at College Field.

Several hundred alumni signed their class year registration sheets with the returning Class of 1973 leading the way. About 75 members of that class were back on campus during the weekend. All of the events planned for Homecoming '78 were well attended and some folks are already looking toward Homecoming '79, scheduled for October 13. If you can't make the date -- but come back -- visit anytime you find it convenient! If you can't come back -- WRITE!

"The Student Association of Lycoming College is very pleased to honor Mr. Frank James by lighting him into the Order of Lycoming, in appreciation for sixteen years of devoted service to our college.

Mr. James joined the admissions staff at Lycoming College in 1963 as assistant director and was promoted to Director of Admissions in 1968. He is a 1949 graduate of Lehigh Haven State College with additional work in counseling at Bucknell University and the Pennsylvania State University.

Prior to his appointment at Lycoming, he was guidance counselor at Jersey Shore High School with career experience at Hershey and Youngsville High Schools. Mr. James is now employed with Custom Awards Located and is a resident of Jersey Shore.

Frank James will always be remembered by us as a member of the College Administration who always took the time to talk to the students, many of whom he knew on a first name basis. He had a genuine interest in our students and was known for giving honest advice to both the students and their parents. Particular because of his commitment, and his individualistic approach, the College achieved its highest enrollment in its history in 1972 at 1,623 full-time students.

Mr. James, now well into his 80's, resides in Wertz, Wertz in October, Mrs. Walter Stalter, Jack C. Eubank, and David G. Rosen is "Sir Frank" in the coveted Order of Lycoming.

The newest members of the Student Assembly, representing the entire student body at Lycoming College, offer you congratulations and best wishes on all your future endeavors.
